

MRS. PANKHURST COMES AS GUEST OF MRS. BELMONT

American Society Leader Suffragist Has No Fear of Militant's Exclusion.

Bar Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and the laughing stock of Europe? Perhaps the thought!

That is exactly the way Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont feels about it, and Mrs. Belmont is just back from Europe, where she had a good chance to become qualified to make the assertion. But Mrs. Belmont hasn't the slightest doubt Mrs. Pankhurst will be promptly admitted.

"Mrs. Pankhurst will be my guest during her stay in New York," said Mrs. Belmont, who returned on the Imperator last night, and saw Mrs. Pankhurst very recently.

"And, of course, Mrs. Pankhurst is going to be admitted to this country," she continued. "She has not the slightest fear about that, nor have I. Why, we should be the laughing stock of Continental Europe if we excluded her."

After Mrs. Belmont had told what a fine time she had on her four months' vacation, which was spent mainly in France and was her first rest in four years, she said:

"It is the last I shall take until we women of New York get the vote."

"But it is feared by some a visit from Mrs. Pankhurst would put off that day," was suggested.

"Absurd," she replied. "Mrs. Pankhurst is not coming here to advocate militant methods. Mrs. Pankhurst knows perfectly well that they are not necessary in this country and will not be employed here. Her visit will be one of encouragement to our suffragists here. She will talk about suffrage, certainly, but not its militant aspects.

"MRS. PANKHURST GREATEST WOMAN IN THE WORLD."

"I am glad and thankful that she is coming, for she is the greatest woman in the world to-day."

"Any one who thinks that Mrs. Pankhurst has put the suffrage movement back in England is mistaken. Put it back? Why, the cause is so far advanced that nothing stands between the women and the vote but—Asquith. Is the question now put to the English people to-day, if they were asked to decide it at the polls, their answer would be 'yes'."

"The fact is, the English people want peace. The only way they can get peace is for the women to have the franchise. Those militants are afraid of nothing. They don't mind death. They will have the vote—and they would have it to-day but for Asquith."

"Paris received Mrs. Pankhurst with open arms," she went on. "The Chamber of Deputies agreed that she should be welcomed by all means. Any other country in Europe would receive her. And if an enlightened land like France would welcome her, shall the United States exclude her? Oh, it won't be done. It would make us look too foolish."

Mrs. Belmont went directly to her house at No. 47 Madison avenue, where she will entertain Mrs. Pankhurst on the latter's arrival about October 12. Mrs. Pankhurst sails on the Provence October 7.

"She can't stay long," Mrs. Belmont said. "She must be back in her country early in December. She is going to lecture in several American cities, but she won't be able to visit the Western States."
